

Question of Property
A Crime Scenario
Money for Italy
Solemn Complaints

Options vary on the income tax and partial inheritance "conflicting" plans for the new tax in Washington. Ralph S. May, Jr., of the New York, representing the conference of American rabbis, favors the legislation. Herbert Benjamin, another New Yorker, a Communist, says the whole program is "entirely inadequate to meet the social needs of the masses."

The United States Chamber of Commerce objects to the income and inheritance tax program, calls it confiscation. The question involved seems simple. Does the property of the United States, owned by the people and intelligence, belong to the people that created it, or is it only held in trust by them for public use by those that, for the time being, exercise powers of government?

Russian Czar Ivan, Peter and others held that everything in Russia, including the life of every Russian, belonged to the czar, who questioned it. Louis the Fourteenth, of France, everything belonged to him; he might temporarily allow it to remain in the hands of his subjects. The American theory, until recently, was that what a man had acquired without violation of law, usually by working, was his property. He was to contribute his proportionate share of actual, realizable wealth of his government. It was not thought that he was to give half or sixty or ninety per cent of his income during life, and as much as a politician might need after his death to finance new theories of government.

Whether that old theory is to be eliminated the next two or three years will decide, in any case it will be impossible to satisfy completely Mr. Herbert Benjamin, New York Communist. This is a rich country, but all the property put together wouldn't satisfy the social needs of the masses if the masses decide not to work.

Dr. McQuinn, a medical student, improved on this story that happened in Chicago. A woman, forty-four years old, lost her married daughter. The husband and son-in-law announced plans to marry. The doctor, according to police, hired for $500 a woman, "former burlesque chorus girl" now living with a Chinese, to murder her son-in-law. The young man was invited to visit his mother-in-law. The burlesque lady was there. "We had two little girls, a whitey," she told the police, "gave him four highballs and he passed out."

The hired murderers then said to the mother-in-law: "Get out and leave the rest to me." She held cotton soaked in ether under the drunken man's nose, fastened a cord around his neck, pulled it tight, "and he was dead." Then she cut off his legs, which have been found, put in a trunk, which she had found.

The police believe that the mother-in-law, who paid for the murder, was in love with her son-in-law and wanted him to marry nobody else, or suspected that he had killed her daughter and wanted revenge. They are now hunting for the burlesque actress and the Chinese with whom she lived. That 1935 American crime makes Eugene Sue's "Mysteries of Paris" seem tame.

Italy is said to need a big war loan. Under the Johnson law, no loan can be raised in America. However, money can always be raised for war. Italy could get money here, if our rich men were still rich and not afraid to spend money to get rich. Italy could get money here, if our rich men were still rich and not afraid to spend money to get rich.

ROOSEVELT AGREES TO TAX DELAY

By International News Service

Washington, July 15.—President Roosevelt would like to see Congress enact a tax bill this session along the lines recently outlined in his message, but is agreeable to having it go over provided both houses agreed on definite action for later in the year.

The presidential viewpoint was given Democratic legislative leaders over the week-end, when Mr. Roosevelt met with them at Jefferson island in Chesapeake Bay.

Moreover, it was learned today the President informed the leaders he was prepared to accept a "reasonable" compromise on any of the legislation now pending if it would end congressional adjournment. That goes for any measures tied up in committee disputes, like the social security bill of the holding company measure.

NO MORE VETO. The President told his legislative leaders frankly that he would like to see the Senate version of the holding company bill prevail—outlawing utility holding companies after five years.

But if the House bill prevails, simply gutting such companies under EEO regulation, he will not veto it.

It was evident as the Jefferson islanders returned to work today that considerable progress had been made in harmonizing some of the conflicting Democratic viewpoints that were reaching the embarrassing stage. In the past few weeks, Democrats have been bickering among themselves as much or more than they have with the Republicans.

Mr. Roosevelt appeared anxious, one leader said, to dispel the idea that he was adopting any dictatorial role in the matter of current legislation.

SEEDS OF ADJOURNMENT. "The facts," said the informant, "that he has made known his views to us, and that it is up to Congress to do the deciding. To that end, he is willing to accept any reasonable compromise in matters that are in dispute."

The President frankly told the weekenders he would like to see adjournment as speedily as possible, but not before completion of pending bills.

He intimated that he believed the country would like a rest from Congress, and the sooner they can clear up the matter the better it will be for all concerned.

Loot Malden Safe of $1500

The first nitro-glycerine safe theft in Malden for months ended thieves between $1500 and $2000 during the night at the plant of the Colonial Ice Cream Co., 899 Eastern avenue.

The yeggs broke through a grating on a rear window. They drilled a hole in the door of the safe for the nitro-glycerine. The sound of the explosion was deafened with sweaters and rubber coats belonging to workmen.

Police said that few safe breaks are done now with the aid of an explosive, and the break may indicate that a gang of experts are again at work in Greater Boston. A few years ago there was an epidemic of such breaks.

VATICAN FLAYS NAZIS Hitler Sterilization Drive Hit

Vatican City, July 15—Starting its first campaign against Germany's church policy, Osservatore Romano, official Papal newspaper today openly clashed with the Nazi Reich on the sterilization issue.

Observators launched a counter-offensive against the Reich, charging Germany, and not the Vatican or the Catholic hierarchy in Germany, had violated the Vatican concordat.

The charge was based on last week's address by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Nazi minister of the Interior, in which he warned Catholics they must halt their attacks on the sterilization law, because Frick said, the concordat made obedience to national laws one of the duties of a good Catholic.

"It is absurd, Osservatore asserted, 'to try and make the Catholic church the tool the state in connection with a law which the church condemns.'

Dr. Frick's stand, according to the paper, violated the first clause of the concordat which guarantees Catholics in the Reich unlimited freedom to profess their faith and worship in public.

The German policy also violates clause 22, the Vatican mouthpiece guaranteed therein for the clergy said, because it abridges the right to "teach and explain without limit the church's religious as well as moral dogmas."

CONDUCTOR, 58, Dying in Fall

Auto Wreck Injures 8

Shrewsbury, July 15—Eight persons, four from Greater Boston, were injured today in a crash between two automobiles on the old Boston Post road.

In Worcester Memorial Hospital are William McGrath, 17, Orchard street, Medford; Mrs. Edna Mardini, 99 Reed street, Cambridge; and Benjamin White, Jr., 112 Winter street, Cambridge.

In Marlboro Hospital are Donald A. Brodner, 41 Hayden street, Marlboro; Mrs. Donald Brodner, Norman Brodner, 15, and Girard Brodner, 14.

Shrewsbury police took the eight from the wreckage after the crash.

TAR And Feathers FLIGHT

AGED BRIDAL COUPLE SHIFT

By Associated Press
Erie, Pa., July 15—Sixty-eight-year-old Julius Sweitzer and his 84-year-old bride arranged today to carry out their personal effects and move from the town of Corry, whose residents drove them away with threats of tar and feathers.

Sweitzer, who married the aged Mrs. Anna King two weeks ago, asked Assistant Prosecutor Burton Laub for a state police escort to return to Corry and get the couple's clothing.

Laub replied that Corry officers would provide ample protection and said Sweitzer could return any time he pleased.

The elderly bridegroom declined to say when he will make the trip. "We are going to make Corry our home," he said as he left Laub's office.

Guy King, 64, son of Mrs. Sweitzer by a former marriage, is an oil field worker at Erie, Pa. He is charged with slaying Laurence Field, a neighbor, after King had chased Sweitzer from his mother's home.

Police said Field, having an argument between the two, was seeking peace.

Sweitzer and his fifth wife were married at Clymer, N. Y., by a justice of the peace several days after King was arrested for Field's death, which occurred July 3.

Tar, Feathers

About 500 persons, carrying tar and feathers, visited the aged couple's home yesterday. Their injuries consisted of a stream of missiles which broke the windows. They tore the railing from the porch and burst inside.

Police and firemen forced their way through the crowd, rescued Sweitzer and his bride and took them to the city jail safe keeping. Then they sent the newlyweds to Erie.

Police said ill feeling existed against Sweitzer and his wife since the Field killing.

They reported finding highway tar and feathers near the Kings' home after the crowd dispersed.

GIRL PLANS 30,000-FOOT 'CHUTE LEAP' FOR RECORD

ALICE GIBSON

New York, July 15—Clyde Pangborn will pilot the Bellanca sky-racer plane on Saturday from which Alice Gibson hopes to leap to a new world's record parachute jump.

With the aid of oxygen tanks, Pangborn expects to attain an altitude of 30,000 feet. The present parachute record, established in Russia last year, is 26,275 feet. The U. S. record is 25,000 feet, and the woman's record is 22,700 feet, made by a Rumanian girl in Los Angeles recently.

PLANS SCRAPPED MOVE TO SPEED JOBS

3,500,000 MUST BE PUT TO WORK

By Associated Press
Washington, July 15—High officials said today that elaborate plans prepared by the national resources board—on which President Roosevelt originally based the $4,000,000,000 work relief program—have been abandoned so far as the present jobs drive is concerned.

Lack of money and the need for speed in getting started toward the goal of 3,500,000 jobs were given as the chief reasons.

With Secretary Ickes as chairman, the board submitted to Mr. Roosevelt last year a coordinated public works program to improve land, water and mineral resources. It suggested a permanent work program which might involve expenditure of $125,000,000 in a half-century.

ONLY ONE PLAN THEN
Explaining some of the delays in the present program, one high official said today it was not until May, after the work relief act was passed, that any plans for spending the huge appropriation existed except those prepared by the board.

Harry L. Hopkins' Relief Administration had no plans because neither Hopkins nor Ickes knew until two weeks after the Works Relief act was signed which would be in charge, it was said.

After Hopkins was given the principal role, he found two difficulties would prevent carrying out the national resources board program.

Much of the work it proposed, in particular for rivers and harbor revision control, and highway construction, would be in sparsely settled areas where the relief load is light.

ROOSEVELT CALLS HALT
This would leave little for large cities where the destitute are concentrated, or for 750,000 white collar workers.

The resources board program called for a large expenditure of materials—more than the $1,200,000,000 to be spent on materials under the revised program.

As a result, it was said, a halt was called after Mr. Roosevelt had allotted about $100,000,000. It was decided the work program administration would spend about $200,000,000 on projects calling for comparatively few materials.

Emphasizing the value of river and harbor improvements, the resources board quoted an estimate by army engineers that $8,000,000,000 could be spent profitably on such work.

Mr. Roosevelt has allotted $97,000,000.

Curves Cost N.Y. Teacher Her Job

By Associated Press
New York, July 15—The board of education likes its teachers straight-lined, so Rose Fraister is out of a job.

Today the board laid its objection to the lady's too general curves before the state commissioner, in answer to her appeal to be allowed to teach whatever nature dictates.

In 1931 she passed an examination for biology laboratory assistant with very high grades, but was charged to receive a letter from the board asking if she would please lose 32 pounds and apply again in six months.

Starting from 132 she managed to get down to 160, and asked for an extension of time to shed the remaining ten pounds.

She explained that her mother's illness had prevented her from devoting her entire attention to the reducing job. The request was not granted.

The board explained today that it regarded outsize instructors as a poor risk and questioned their ability to meet schoolroom emergencies.

When Miss Fraister was last officially weighed she was back to 161.

Land Takings Held Illegal

By Associated Press
Cincinnati, July 15—The sixth district United States Circuit Court of Appeals held today the federal government has no power to condemn land for use in public housing projects.

The court split in sustaining Judge Charles J. Dawson of Louisville, now retired. On January 4, Judge Dawson held condemnation for such a purpose to be illegal, through failure to come within the government's power to condemn lands for public buildings, parks, fortifications, or arsenals.

Directly affected is a $1,618,000 housing project in Louisville, Ky. Indirectly, however, Secretary Ickes has said the suit here affected the entire $180,000,000 housing program in some 40 cities.

South Boston Project Not Affected Yet
The $500,000 Federal housing project in South Boston is not affected as yet by a ruling against the government in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, United States Attorney, Francis J. W. Ford said today.

The local condemnation proceedings will continue until a final decision is handed down by the United States Supreme Court," said Ford.

"In my opinion the government will make a decision by that tribunal before calling off the project."

POSSIBLE MAKE NEXT WAR CHAOS OF TERROR

KICKERBOCKER WARMS ALL LAWS TO BE IGNORED

(Editor's Note: The incredible horror of the next war, and the death-dealing weapons which will make it a cataclysm of terror, are graphically described by H. R. Knickerbocker, foreign correspondent of International News Service, in a series of nine articles.)

The first instalment in this vivid picturing of "The Great Chaos" follows.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent
(World Copyright, 1935, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

London, July 15 (INS).—The next war will be of unprecedented barbarity.

It will be launched probably without warning.

It will use every old and new, known and secret weapon. It will ignore all laws.

It will attack civilians and soldiers alike.

Its destruction will be on a scale so colossal that in the end Europe will be left with remnants of its population starving among the fragments of its civilization.

It will be the "Great Chaos."

This is the considered opinion of Europe's leaders who have made it their business to study not only the weapons but the psychology and the policy of the future conflict.

War is uppermost in the mind of Europe. Three questions have been asked about it. Europe has answered to its own dismay two of them.

"Will war come?" has been answered: "Yes, unless the armaments race is stopped, because every armaments race ends in war."

Women and Children to Die

"When will the war come?" has been answered: "It will come at the latest when one or the other of the future belligerents has reached a peak in armaments which reasonably promises conclusive victory."

Third question is "How Will They Fight the War?" Every war ministry, every government and most of the thinking people on this continent are absorbed in this question today. What do the experts of Europe answer? What lessons may America draw from their answers?

First, they declare the next war will be different from any that has gone before. It will be a war on women and children. Reduced to its simplest terms, it will be a struggle to see which side can break the will of the other by killing, maiming and panicking the civilian population.

It will be a war in which anything goes. There will be no restraint of any kind. Every weapon will be employed, regardless of convention. It will be a total war, and every man, woman and child in the nations involved will be treated as a combatant. Front, rear and home-front will all be fronts.

Militarists and pacifists are agreed that the air arm has revolutionized the character of war, and that no hope is to be had from that any convention to limit its use or the use of any other weapon will be observed.

Hague Court Leader

Sees No Hope

Lately to the pacifist, Nicolas Politis, distinguished Greek jurist, judge of the Hague court of Arbitration, who sums up his "Future War in Warfare" as follows: "It is the duty of every wise and far-seeing man to proclaim that nothing is to be expected of conventional laws of war, for it is vain to hope that once lost, force could find itself."

And then to the militarist, General Eric Ludendorff, of the Imperial German army writing on the next world war: "Military operations will be a human war in Europe with an elemental character in the first months."

"Everywhere and from the first instant fighting will be begun on land, in the air and on the sea. Less attention will be paid to international law than in the World War, 1914-18, and the enemy powers exploited it to the utmost."

"All agreements concerning warfare, the prohibition against dropping the bombs from airplanes, for instance, or restrictions concerning the use of submarines will be ignored."

"In accordance with the identical desire of the powers, war will have to fulfill its function of destroying countries and peoples and relentlessly breaking the will of the European nations as they may at last be dominated by the mercy of the victors."

Seconding Ludendorff is the Russian General Vasiliy Tsinchenko: "No legal consideration will stand in the way of the next war. The situation is at stake. The unrestricted use of every available weapon of violence will be a feature of a future war. This will be so from the first day of its declaration to the last day of the preliminary operations which will endanger the whole war, and nothing will be gained by moderation of any kind."

There still rages a controversy among military men as to the value of the air arm. Careful review of the current European situation leads to the conclusion that opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of the view expressed by the British General P. C. Groves:

"The use of the air arm is applied to the destruction of the enemy's war effort, and it is rendered possible to apply the

JEWISH HISSES RILE HITLER

By International News Service
Berlin, July 15.—Jews who whistled and cat-called in a motion picture theater in protest against a film which the Reich movie authorities had sanctioned as "politically valuable" today were warned by Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, "Volkischer Beobachter," to do their future protesting in silence.

The picture, shown in one of the West End's leading movie palaces last night, was a Swedish film called "Peterson and Bendel" and it showed as its villain a Jew taking advantage of a blonde Swede, humorously depicted.

"The Jews" should be careful, warned the newspaper today. "It is time we point out that we will not tolerate any reactionary movements of that kind, and that we will not allow Jews to interfere with or even criticize things which are affairs of the state and its people."

FATHERS SEEK BEACH SAND

Carrying a petition signed by hundreds of East Boston residents, a delegation of 25 called upon Park Commissioner William F. Long today with a demand for more sand on World War Memorial Beach in East Boston.

The delegation, headed by Joseph Buco, was referred to Commissioner Long said that his department had not the money to provide sand for the beach, although Buco pointed out that the beach has the largest attendance of any local beach.

In 1933, Buco said, there was a sand shortage and the state War Memorial Beach had no sand on any other beach.

From the British side General Groves and General J. C. Tsinchenko emphasize the inevitability of the next war. Captain Tsinchenko declares:

"We must start with the assumption that the whole purpose of the next war will be the destruction of adjacent belligerent states and that the whole purpose of the next war will be the destruction of adjacent belligerent states and that the whole purpose of the next war will be the destruction of adjacent belligerent states."

Major C. C. Turner says: "The next war will be a civilizational war reduced to its simplest terms, it will be a struggle to see which side can break the will of the other by killing, maiming and panicking the civilian population."

Thus French, German and British military leaders are agreed that the next war will be a war on women and children. Reduced to its simplest terms, it will be a struggle to see which side can break the will of the other by killing, maiming and panicking the civilian population.

VETS OPPOSE "RIFLE GANG"

Opposition against Governor Currier's recommendation for transfer of Chelsea Soldiers' Home to the Federal government was voiced at a hearing today before the Senate Ways and Means committee.

Charles P. Nichol, legislative officer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared no demand exists for such a transfer and the state has always been ready to care for its own.

Police said one of the members of the gang, John Mang, 34, confessed 150 crimes before his memory faded him.

BOARDSMAN ARCHED AGAIN

Arguments on the bill to regulate outdoor advertising under a wide director were rehearsed today at a hearing before the legislative committee on mercantile affairs.

Passed by the House in 1931, the bill was revived after Governor Currier sent a special message to the Legislature.

A personal touch was again added to the deliberations when Senator Arthur W. Hodge of Newton, Republican and chairman of the committee, asked Raymond E. Wilkins why "the Governor is so interested" in the measure.

Wilkins, who favored the bill, representing the Massachusetts Outdoor Advertising Association, replied: "I am not able to answer that question. I never spoke to the Governor in my life."

More than one hundred persons were present, the greater number of them from the outdoor advertising industry.

Chief among them was former Attorney General Joseph E. Warner.

Cohasset Garden Club Will War on Rag Weed

By BETTY ALDEN

WHEN ST. PATRICK chased all the snakes out of Ireland he wrote an unusual page in proverbial and ecclesiastical history and now the Cohasset Garden Club, with the co-operation of other local organizations, is about to write a unique page in Garden Club history with their plan to chase all the snakes out of Cohasset.

Tuesday, July 23, has been proclaimed as Rag Weed Day, when a prominent group of social summer residents of Cohasset will tour the countryside on large trucks and match out by the roots every available plant of the dreaded weed.

Mrs. John Washburn Coolidge and Mrs. Philip Towle, president of the Cohasset Women's Club, are co-chairmen of the group so energetically planning this campaign which will surely make the community a happier place for vacationing hay feverites.

THE BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS, the Four Inch Club, the Cohasset Women's Club and The Cohasset Improvement Association are all represented on the committee, including Mr. Lewis S. Bell, head of the Cohasset Boy Scouts, and Mrs. Bell; Mr. Arnold Peterson, leader of the Four Inch Club; Mr. Walter Binias, president of the Improvement Association; Mrs. John Bates, Miss Muriel Crocker and Mrs. George Glover Crocker, Jr., members of the Garden Club.

At Tennis Tourney

Somewhere in her tournament experience, Jane Sharp, attractive young tennis star of Pasadena, Cal., must have picked up the superstition of wearing a rabbit's foot, for yesterday afternoon a tiny one dangled from her belt and bobbed about in true bunny fashion as she scoured higher and higher to drive home her winning drives. . . . Miss Sharp will return home with at least one championship for yesterday afternoon she and Mrs. John Van Ry surprised the gallery and the tennis experts by defeating Sarah Palfrey Fayhan and Kay Winthrop in straight sets.

Mrs. John Gorman Palfrey and her youngest daughter, Joanna, were there to watch Sarah put up a good fight. . . . and hurried away after the match to get cooled off at their farm in Sharon. . . . Mrs. Palfrey, who has one of the richest tastes we have seen on any socialite, wore a very becoming pale blue and white flowered suit dress with a plain blue hat. . . . Joanna also wore a printed dress.

Ada Dewson in White

ADA DEWSON DROVE OVER from Milton with a group of friends who found it more comfortable to "spectate" than to participate in active sports on such a warm Sunday afternoon. . . . White, with a ruby red hat and bag fashioned Ada's Sunday costume.

Kay Winthrop doesn't have to pack a rabbit's foot in her luggage as she makes the rounds of tennis tournaments. . . . for she goes in for bracelets with her shorts and on one dangles a lucky charm. . . . When she plays at the Essex County Club tournaments this week she will be right in her home territory for the summers with her distinguished family at Beverly Farms.

Rodman Paul, who was the efficient publicity director for the Hasty Pudding Show in the spring, and one of the directors of the Harvard Crimson was in the gallery with his mother and brother.

After the very thrilling men's doubles championship match was over the verandah of the clubhouse was a lively scene as members sat around sipping refreshing drinks. . . . and exchanging opinions on the outcome of the matches. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Melvin M. Johnson, Jr., and Mrs. George Wightman were among the many we glimpsed there.

Beacon Hillites on the Cape

TODAY AS WE THUMB through our notebook we notice a few interesting jottings about Beacon Hillites who are sojourning on Cape Cod.

The former Nancy Olney and her bridegroom, Mr. Charles Willard, are on from New York for a vacation with Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Olney at Wood's Hole. . . . Nancy plans to prolong her visit with her family after her husband's proverbial two weeks vacation is ended and he has to return to Gotham.

One of the most pleasant customs of the summertime is visiting friends at their shore or country homes. . . . Nearly every gracious and lively hostess has at least one house guest all the time which gives her plenty of opportunity for entertaining in a simple, informal way. . . . Mrs. Elliot Fulman has been visiting the Roger Skiffers at Buzzards Bay, where teas and bridge parties have brightened the social calendar during her stay.

Sylvia Wald Bigelow is making quite a hit with her dramatic endeavors at the Beach Theater. . . . where she is occupying her time until her husband, "Bert," returns from his painting studies in Paris.

Mrs. Boylston Adams of Chestnut Hill has left for Cleveland to stay with her daughter, Nancy (Mrs. Benjamin Patterson Role) while the stork makes his visit at the Role household.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

A SIMPLE LITTLE PARTY FOR SISTER

This is a true story. Laugh it off, if you can!

It happened in a small city near Los Angeles, but the site doesn't count, for this sort of thing is as All-American as National Event. As you know, it's a pet of the pet to know to their grief.

It's about that simple little party the folks threw for sister when she was graduated from Junior High School's fourteen.

Remember the dresses you and I wore, Mary, when we graduated from Grammar, at fourteen's moon? Just last year's white swiss, with the hem let down, and perhaps a new blue sash.

Fourteen-year-olds lived their age in those days. But just try and tell Sister, today, that she should have worn a dress like that! What would she do?

Plenty! For this—in case you've forgotten—in 1933, and little girls aren't graduating in last year's dotted Swiss any more!

Anything but! Sister's graduation dress was that of those "simple" little copies of a Paris model that put a sickening dent in the pocket.

And that was just a starter.

There was, besides, a complete outfit—backless orchid chiffon—for the private party which The Folks gave her in the biggest butter-n'-egg hotel.

A party for fourteen-year-olds! Does that bring up visions of "Spin-the-platter," "Drop-the-handkerchief" and "Post-office"? From which you might gather you're hap to modern family life—that Sister's Dad was at least one of our important sages, and her mother a congenial idiot.

Not. Dad's a plain contractor, with a wad of dabs that's worrying him sick. And Mom's a loving, earnest soul who's gladly been skinned alive if, by so doing, she could further her children's interests. Which is exactly what she thought she was doing when she threw this party for Sister.

What can the future possibly hold for youngsters who have received service like that at fourteen, revelled in sensations like that?

What sort of partners can they possibly make in marriage... what sort of helpmeet in business? What chance has any penniless boy of satisfying the inflated notions of such a girl?

This Is Life ROBERT E. ROGERS

I wish that intolerant woman of the Women's Relief Corps, who is doing her best to prevent a monument to Robert E. Lee being erected on his own estate in Arlington, Virginia, could have seen the play I saw on Friday evening last at Rockport. It might have done her some good.

The occasion was a revival by the Sandy Bay Historical Society of a Civil War play called "Our Regiment," originally written by a Rockport man in 1864 and presented by him and his wife in that year, with 80 surviving O. A. R. men in the cast.

On Friday evening in the same hall we saw the same play with a new cast of young people—only four of the original cast survive—and many costumes and a set of properties that Robert E. Rogers has from the war itself.

In the course of the play an old negro sings a song, "Uncle Adam's Going Home."

One of the authors of the song, Uncle Will Parsons, was in the audience to autograph copies of the song which he had written 51 years ago and which had been reprinted from the original play.

It was pleasant to be reminded how well a poke bonnet sets off a youthful face, how gracefully a hoop skirt can be balanced and how handsome, when that most dignified of all uniforms, the dress coat of a Union officer.

When Johnny came marching home again, bayonets in his clasp and his face a mask of grief, he was able to mention high-wheeled bicycles and old baby carriages and old baby carriages... the effect was singularly successful and interesting. So such a day in summer, 1865, might have looked.

But Why?

But why did I want the play? Because it was written against the kind of thing she has been agitating about.

James R. Rogers, whose descendants still live and who wrote "Our Regiment" for a specific purpose, to help end the old hatred.

In 1864 they were still waving the bloody shirt in election times. They were still talking about traitors.

There was another folk drama about the Civil War, very popular among the O. A. R., called "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh." It was dedicated to keeping the old animosities alive, the old wounds open. It was an older play than "Our Regiment," much more famous.

Obviously two of the points in the later play were suggested to the author by the earlier drama. In both pieces the story of Fort Sumter comes at breakfast time to stir the patriotism of a northern family, whose son loves a southern girl, whose daughter is a southern boy. The families separate in anger.

But in "Our Regiment" folks on both sides are decent and loyal, each to his own and the southern girl is a northern sympathizer at heart.

In "The Drummer Boy" the southern lover is a quiet-eyed villain, the son of the traitor, who eventually turns up as commander of Andersonville Prison.

After starving and brutalizing his old time friends, shoots down Johnny the drummer boy in cold blood, just as the boys in the house to-tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching—and shoot down the Confederate witch.

So it is written, and all the end of the audience's feelings are harrowed as the boy's drum is hung up in the old home and the heartbroken sister, trying to sing "The Varsity Chime," breaks down and weeps.

Loyalty's Reward

The author of "Our Regiment" also used a prison scene, in Libby this time—but here the northern hero is saved by the heroism of old Uncle Adam, who aids him to escape and is shot dead for his loyalty.

In "Our Regiment" too, the southern hero is caught as a spy, condemned to be shot, and saved at the last minute by a pardon signed "A. Lincoln," which the boy's sweetheart, now an army nurse, brings through the lines.

And at the end the southern boy is only too happy to take the oath of allegiance.

So much for the difference between the play of 1864 and the play of 1936. The one recalls the atrocities of a bitter enemy and triumphs over him.

The other—James R. Rogers's Rockport play—asserts equal loyalty and uprightness to the supporters of both causes. There is no villainy; there are only self-sacrificing, suffering, and human kindness, and at the end a reunited people and a common memory of human effort and aspiration.

The women of the Relief Corps is still thinking in terms of the old Drummer Boy melodrama, but drawing its emotional effects by playing upon the bitterest memories of hatred and grief.

"Our Regiment," pretty feasible as literature and drama are concerned, presented way back in 1864 a point of view which is almost a matter of course nowadays on both sides of the Mason and Dixon's line.

It is a play of reconciliation and healing, written by a man whose motto was peace on earth, good will toward men. It was very well worth reviving after all these years.

Never Slept Yet He Lived For 76 Years

By Associated Press

Kinsale, Irish Free State, July 15—Jack McCarthy, 76, a baker who baked all night and hunted all day, died today.

When he was a young man, McCarthy decided that people lost too much time sleeping. So he gradually cut down on his sleeping until he said he was able to forgo sleep entirely.

He boasted that he slept less in 50 years than the average man does in six months.

As to how he did it, he always declined to say.

SON ELLIOTT'S SCALP AT STAKE

By Associated Press

Fort Worth, Tex., July 15—Elliott Roosevelt, whose vice-presidency of the Texas Young Democrats was the object of a recent attack by rebellious Dallas members, will know tomorrow whether a sortie arranged by his friends will pull him out of the political frying pan.

Raymond Buck, chairman of the state executive committee which wants "Texas run by Texans," said his group intended to "go through with the effort to remove the son of the President was anticipated."

"On the contrary, there likely will be some action taken as a resolution dealing properly with these who caused the disunity in Dallas," he said.

Phil Overton, Dallas committee member who organized the anti-Roosevelt movement because he wants "Texas run by Texans," said his group intended to "go through with the effort to remove the son of the President was anticipated."

Overton charged the President's son had been illegally elected; was not familiar with political and governmental problems of Texas, and was causing dissension.

PWA WORKERS To Get Weekly Pay

By Associated Press

Kinsale, Irish Free State, July 15—PWA workers will be paid by the week hereafter for PWA projects, State P.W.A. Administrator Theodore E. Parker will be given more power in the matter of directing the activity.

The principal rules are now that a PWA worker will work eight hours a day, up to 40 hours a week, and only 100 hours a month.

Incidentally, a PWA project is one which will cost more than $25,000, as distinguished from the WPA projects, which will cost from $2500 up.

'Trouble Fixer' Aids Baby Carriage Hunt

By "THE TROUBLE FIXER"

Although "The Trouble Fixer's" main job is that of adjusting complaints, he is always willing to use the column to help those in distress.

Thus today he publishes the following communication from Mrs. Fred W. Sheehan, 564 East Sixth street, South Boston:

"Will you please help me locate a new baby carriage that was stolen Wednesday night about 11 o'clock on K street between Fourth street and Broadway.

The carriage was bought two weeks ago as the baby is but five weeks old. There are four other small children in the family.

"Fillow, a pink silk carriage robe, the baby's suit and jacket were taken with the carriage."

Mrs. E. Thurmon of 211 Clinton avenue, Medford, phoned "The Trouble Fixer" that she has an ice-chest to give away to some needy person.

E. C. Carr, 146 Boylston street, Boston: "The Trouble Fixer" will try to adjust the trouble within a short time.

Mrs. Dorothy, West Roxbury: The beach will probably soon be fixed up properly. The condition is being handled through the regular news columns of the Boston Evening American.

TOM MEIGHAN'S Life in Balance

New York, July 15 (US)—Although still in a critical condition, Thomas Meighan, noted stage and screen star, was reported "resting comfortably" at Doctor's Hospital where he is recovering from a major operation.

The crisis in the actor's condition is expected to be reached today, and if he pulls through the crisis, his physicians declare he probably will recover. However, they admit his condition is extremely grave, and fears are felt for his life.

EVERETT MAN GONE WEEK

Leonard R. Current, 39, of 9 George street, Everett, agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has been missing since last Monday night.

Current left his home informing his wife, Rosalie, he was going out to get a headache powder at the drug store. He hasn't been seen since.

Current's employer, Harry Beggs, stated no condition connected with his work would explain Current's disappearance as his accounts are in order.

Current is the father of three children. His wife is in a state of collapse.

He was described as 39 years of age, five feet nine inches tall, weighing 150 pounds and dark complexioned.

BODY FOUND Near Worcester Hut

Worcester, July 15—The body of Fred Willett, 70, was found today in a pool of blood in the tall grass outside a shack he occupied near East Park.

Officials questioned George Beaupre, 62, who lived with Willett.

Beaupre told officers: "It was as hot last night Fred and he was going outside to sleep. That was about 10 o'clock. I didn't see him after he left the house."

DEATH TOLL 43

In N. Y. State Floods

Kornell, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Flood wracked upstate New York communities rapidly returned to normal today with the removal of thousands of tons of mud and debris from streets and houses over the week-end.

The bodies of three more flood victims were found in the Binghamton area to raise the death toll to 43.

Chesterfield... the cigarette that's MILDER
Chesterfield... the cigarette that TASTES BETTER

Chesterfields... that's about all we smoke down in this neck of the woods

Chesterfields are mild—mild but not flat. That's one reason why.

And they have plenty of taste—without being harsh. That's another reason why.

Everybody knows They Satisfy—just about all any cigarette can do.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Oil—Just Two Days Out of Bed in the Morning and You're

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest, it just decays in the bowels, then you get sick, you get constipated, you get nervous, you get irritable, you get tired, you get weak, you get old.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A man who has taken them doesn't get the same results as a man who has taken the Liver Bile. The Liver Bile is the only thing that makes you feel "up and up." It cleans, purifies, and promotes the healthy flow of bile. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Satisfactorily returns your liver to its normal state.

HURLERS FAIL TO FUNCTION

By Dave Wilson
(Selections made for fast track)

Suffolk Downs, July 15—Seven well-matched races, headlined by the Cape Cod, a six furlong dash for three-year-olds, have been carded for the sixth day's sport of the Eastern Racing Association's inaugural meeting here tomorrow afternoon.

Motto, C. V. Whitney's speedy filly, shapes up not only as the probable winner of the feature, which is programmed as the fifth number, but as the outstanding wagering proposition of the day.

FIRST—BANDY MACK, MARKED GAL, VALE OF TEARS
BANDY MACK figures to reverse the tables on MARKED GAL under the weight arrangement here. Bandy has less than two lengths, the Graton colt in dropping six pounds while MARKED GAL is taking on two, making an eight pound shift in favor of the former. VALE OF TEARS finished good speed in New York races.

SECOND—PEPPER, CATURNINO, RUTLAND
PEPPER and CATURNINO, which will run coupled in the waging at the Radcliffe entry, appears to hold a strange hold on the number. Pepper was a short priced favorite against better company last Saturday. He failed to finish in the money, but he raced well enough to handle a poor lot of this sort. CATURNINO is clearly the speed of the party and may make every pace a winning one if the route is within his staying powers. RUTLAND and CAPPOQUIN are the main dangers. They are fancied as named.

THIRD—JUBILEE JIM, STE. LOUISE, NEDVIE
JUBILEE JIM, a galloping winner over Seaboard at Rockingham Park, strikes me as a juvenile of class. STE. LOUISE, best of the remarkable Western record, is strictly the one to fear. NEDVIE, another that raced well in the West, should not experience much difficulty in saving the short end.

FOURTH—POLYDORUS, AUNT FLO, LADINO
Going to give POLYDORUS one more chance. If the aged son of Frier Rock can't beat this ordinary lot, then he should be turned out. AUNT FLO, a galloping winner at Narragansett, figures just as LADINO is razor sharp and may share in the spoils.

FIFTH—MOTTO, TIME FLIGHT, WISE PRINCE
MOTTO was a galloping winner over Frisky Mafren, All Furlors and other good ones only a few days back. She the only filly to duplicate that performance in order to grace the winner's circle. TIME FLIGHT, outstayed in the Commonwealth Handicap, is well suited to the conditions here. He is strictly the one to fear. WISE PRINCE freshened up slightly, should be along in time to head the others.

SIXTH—SANDWACK, CREWAWA, MORALIST
SANDWACK's last race goes for the spot that the manure the morgue. The work bet attests that he is capable of better things. CREWAWA, a superior mudder, will be all dangerous in the event of gumbo. MORALIST displayed improvement in time.

SEVENTH—CARLEON, GIFTED LADY, RED MOUNTAIN
CARLEON, always partial to card board race tracks, is coming up fit to run the rocks. Part to hope that he has rubbed better over. GIFTED LADY figures to offer the contention. RED MOUNTAIN, on Detroit form, must be accorded better than an outside chance.

Any one of you girls or boys sporting that old ten might duplicate the feat of Helen Howard, southern diving champion, who is pictured above doing a back one and one-half full twist. The first picture shows the take off; up she goes in No. 2; around and down and up again in pictures 3, 4 and 5; you are nearly right with mother earth in photos 6, 7, but old man gravity takes a hand in the proceedings and you make up your mind to find a soft spot in pictures 9 and 10. It's all very simple, girls, only it takes a lot of perseverance to duplicate Helen's feat.

CAPITAL RING PICKINGS SLIM PROMOTERS LEAN

By Damon Runyon
(Copyright, 1925, by Universal Service)
Washington, July 15—For years boxing promoters used to eye the thriving city of Washington avaciously and mutter: "If they only had legalized boxing in that town, what fat pickings there would be!"

The surmise was based on a large, sports-loving population, poor attendance at boxing bouts produced on the outskirts of our nation's capital, on the general interest all over these United States in the many art of muzzing man.

Well, they have legalized boxing here for some time now, and the pickings haven't been fat at all. In fact, they have been so lean that the local promoters are said to be assuming the haggard, hollow-eyed, wolfish appearance that is characteristic of boxing promoters everywhere in these times.

Hard Times
You generally find boxing promoters nowadays hanging out in front of butcher shops, hungrily eyeing the hams on display in the windows, or standing with their noses pressed flat to the pane of glass, endeavoring to catch the odors of baking bread and pie. It is a sad spectacle to be sure.

Of course the reason the boxing commission, and everything else, is slumped in Washington is the general slump in boxing interest and the installed legalized boxing here just when the slump was slumping.

We recall coming here some many years ago with James J. Johnston and his little gladiator, Johnny Dundee, to participate in the defense of the Washington bag against boxing by a local promoter of the period, who has long since disappeared. Perhaps he starved to death.

But finally, a year or so ago, they got a regular law, with a commission, and everything else, is slumped in Washington is the general slump in boxing interest and the installed legalized boxing here just when the slump was slumping.

Mr. Boston

Danno Vs. Don --$100,000

By JACK CONWAY

SPEAKING of news: My guess is that the O'Mahoney-George bout at Braves Field on July 30 for the world's championship will draw between $75,000 and $100,000.

The Sonnenberg-Lewis tussle at the Garden did $72,000 which is the high for New England.

O'Mahoney is a better card than Sonnenberg. The young Irishman has made a specialty of cracking out of the records.

Jackie Fisher, coach of Boston's Little League, is a basketball and baseball Academy, Bridgton, Me., was in town over the weekend. He is former Eastern High and Fordham quizzard. He was on a Fordham team that defeated Boston College. Fisher is one of the most promising of the younger crop of coaches and is certain to go bigger.

Bridgton won the prep school football championship of the state of Maine last season, and expects to repeat this year. If able coaching means anything, Bridgton should win out.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, with two state winners on his resume, continues to be the most successful of the younger crop of coaches, and is certain to go bigger.

Meeting Secretary Frank J. Ryan of Suffolk Downs is trying to arrange a handicap race for Saturday which will feature Discovery, Top Row and Dark Horse.

'GANSETT PLANS

BILLY Ames says he is going ahead with plans for the next Narragansett Park meeting, which opens on August 11. Billy was a visitor at Suffolk Downs on Saturday.

Walter O'Hara, boss of Narragansett Park, and Mrs. O'Hara have gone to Colorado to visit with two of Mrs. O'Hara's sisters who are in a convent.

Mrs. O'Hara helped her husband a great deal during the recent Narragansett Park meeting by acting as a charming, gracious hostess.

Walter St. Dennis has gone to Chicago as director of publicity for the Joe Louis-King Lewis bout at Agawam, which is in charge of the publicity for the recent Lou-Carnera bout, and did his usual, first class job. He was formerly associated with the New York Garden.

Mike Jacobs and Joe Foley will probably be the Chicago boys which he expected to draw $150,000. Louis is the star of the fight, but there are a lot of folks who always figure the Kingfish has a chance to nail the opposition on the chin with a looping right and punch. Remember what he did to Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey.

I don't think Max Baer will fight again this year. He is too busy talking about his injured hands and his desire to settle his matrimonial difficulties to concern himself with boxing.

BETTING CROWDS

THERE was more betting activity at Suffolk Downs on Saturday than on the opening day. The fans kept moving around the spacious East Boston track and most of them ended up at one of the mutual windows. On the opening day many of the fans didn't leave their seats in the grandstand or clubhouse to visit the pari-mutuel windows.

Fast Move is one of the most improved horses at Suffolk Downs. Paul Bower tells me Tara, and the rest of his stable troupe and pacers will appear at the Grand Circuit races at Rockingham. The meeting opens on August 3 and closes on August 10.

I found Lou Smith and Mrs. Smith in front of the clubhouse at Suffolk Downs. Lou is already making plans for his race meeting at Agawam which is just outside of Springfield.

It would like to stage a grand national at Agawam, said Lou. There is plenty of money and plenty of interest around the track. We could have the start and finish of the meet inside of the track.

Lou is the pioneer in New England racing and has always been progressive.

McLARNIN'S PLANS

MARCUS Gift of New York the me Jimmy McLarnin would be willing to box in Boston provided the promoter would treat him with Taddy Yarcos in a bout for the middleweight title.

McLarnin would be a cinch to win from Yarcos. He would Lou Sonnenberg and several other boxers.

GIRL Siege Gun OF GOLF

SHOWS MEN HOW TO DRIVE

By Bill Gimes

"Although I've only seen her play two rounds, Babe Didrikson will be the world's greatest woman golfer within two years," declared Tom Mahan, the United States professional after he and Johnny Nies had defeated the Texas girl and Gene Sarazen 3 and 2 at the Beverly Country Club.

Babe and Sarazen are booked to play Miss Rosamond Vahey, the state champion, and Jesse Guilford tomorrow afternoon at the Woodland Golf Club.

If you go on your watching a long hit in action or have any doubt in your mind of Babe's ability to give a golf ball a little just to go to Woodland and watch her whack 'em.

"Until I saw her play Helen Hicks at Oakmont, just before the U. S. Open, I'll admit that the distance credited to her by press notes did not register with me," continued genial Thomas.

But, after watching her catch hold of a few wood shots, I was fully satisfied that she was a hitter.

Catch Hitter

"They say that Babe has been playing golf only two years. I don't know anything about that but I do know that she made Helen Hicks, who was practically born with a golf club in her hands, look like a novice at Oakmont."

"Babe is what we call a 'catch hitter.' Therefore, she is liable to hook or lose some shots. But when she catches 'em right, boy, how she riffs 'em."

"I've been a professional for some years and I do pride myself on being able to get them out there a respectable distance. So I did not get any lick out of hitting second shots on some holes before Miss Didrikson."

Just as soon as Babe hit a brassie into the trap back of the second green, Mahan said he knew that he'd better start leaning into them. It was with this thought in mind that he stashed one out of bounds at the 4th. When he reached Babe's drive and saw that she was well out in front of Johnny Nies, and also a few yards longer than Sarazen, he was glad that the drive went over the fence.

At the 16th hole he hit one right. It was the best he hit all afternoon. Imagine his feelings when he discovered he was only about five yards out from front of Babe, who was standing on one foot, having pitched right around, as she whaled into her tee shot.

Great Card

"In my opinion, Babe will be one of the greatest drawing cards in golf, just as soon as the public is convinced of her greatness," concluded Tom Mahan, who a year ago, Reynolds Smith, the Dallas Texas boy who was such a sensation during the national amateur championship at the Country Club, gave the writer a detailed report of Miss Didrikson's hitting ability. I thought he'd been listening to those Canadian hockey players' claims of all whom claim they drive 300 yards, so I did not pay a great deal of attention to his remarks.

I saw for myself in the Sunday afternoon there is no question of her greatness as long as her present notices are. She is re-amping her game and the supervisor of Sarazen and therefore is not scoring well at present. But, as Babe herself stated, within six months she'll be a consistent 70 player, for she shows a remarkable eagerness hitting all shots.

Show Woman

Babe is a fine show woman. At the 4th, after letting up her ball she turned to Gene Sarazen and asked:

"Sure, I step into him."

"Sure, show me a real hit, instructed Gene."

Then she walked up to her ball and without setting herself hit one of the best shots of the day. It will be weeks before the Beverly golf addicts tire of relating that little piece of byplay. Later on, Babe asked Tom Mahan if he had hit that one.

"No," replied Tom, "it was a little on the head." "All right, I'll hit one on the tee and go by you."

Unless all signs fail, one of the largest galleries has followed her exhibition in years will be at Woodland tomorrow. There is a real treat in store for the spectators, who will get the surprise of their lives when they see this very girl, who has defeated Gene Sarazen and Jesse Guilford, two of the longest hitters in golf.

WIND'S SPEED HARNESSSED

Pro Outboard Leader in Boston Regatta

By Ed Schriftgiesser

Fred Jacoby, leading professional outboard motor boat pilot in America last season, will be one of the stellar attractions at the Boston regatta next month on the Charles River Basin.

Jacoby, veteran driver and winner of the Albany-New York marathon down the Hudson river, was the high point scorer among the cash prize ranks during 1934.

While his official entry blank has not yet arrived, he has assured officials of the Central New England Regatta Association that he will be on hand to try the new Basin course, on August 10 and 11. Jacoby, like other pros, admitted he finds the generous cash prizes here decidedly attractive.

The regatta, sponsored by the Boston Evening American and Sunday advertiser, is developing into the most popular open event on the speed boat circuit this season.

Arrangements were being made this week by Commodore Stanley W. Ferguson and other officials for the erection of tents and stands to house the costly heat and motors during the two-day regatta.

Two 80-foot tents are to be set up near the Union Boat Club lagoon where the delicate hydroplanes and their high-powered engines will be kept under constant police guard.

With a racing outfit costing the driver at least $1000, no chances will be taken on loan. Separate quarters will be provided for in-board boats of the new 22-cubic-inch class, with boistering gear for hauling out.

Among those who are expected to compete in this new racing division is Bob Botes, famous Humber rock boat builder and racing pilot, who is building a new 220 especially for this regatta.

Botes is a veteran of outboard ranks and an official of the C. N. E. Regatta Association. His boat is being given special trials on the North River at Marshfield.

These 220s are powered with rebuilt Ford V-8 or other high-powered engines and are the fastest racing craft of their size afloat. They were developed to afford a racing craft of great speed, less tricky than the outboards. The price of which could be kept within reasonable limits.

One of the most colorful matches of the morning was the tilt between Miss Gracy Whelan of Santa Monica, California, and Miss O. Gaster of Jamaica Plain that went 7-3 in the first set and the second 6-2.

Mrs. Mabel Fabian (Sarah Palfrey) defeated her opponent, Mrs. William Martin, in an easy match.

THREE MATCHES

Breadon Denies Dizzy Dean on Block

St. Louis, July 15 (AP)—San Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball club denied today reports that Pitcher Dizzy Dean had been sold to the Chicago Cubs.

"There is not a single word of truth in such a report," Breadon said. "Sale of Dizzy Dean has not been discussed with any club-in fact, it has never been hinted by the Cubs that they wanted Dizzy."

The report that Dean had been sold (not carried by the Associated Press) said he would go to the Cubs' organization next fall.

PALFREY Girl DEFEATED

Essex Country Club, Manchester, Mass., July 15.—The annual Essex Country Club invitation tennis tournament, good and hard hitting, morning amid overcast skies and threatening rain that kept the usual large crowd away.

Miss Polly Palfrey, one of the famous tennis family, went down to defeat in the first match of the tournament at the hands of Mrs. J. D. Corbiers of Southboro, 6-3, 6-1. A fast backhand stroke that often went wild with the feature of Miss Palfrey's play. This wild backhand cost the Brookline woman many points and coupled with Mrs. Corbiers' steady playing brought her defeat.

One of the most colorful matches of the morning was the tilt between Miss Gracy Whelan of Santa Monica, California, and Miss O. Gaster of Jamaica Plain that went 7-3 in the first set and the second 6-2.

Mrs. Mabel Fabian (Sarah Palfrey) defeated her opponent, Mrs. William Martin, in an easy match.

The Boston Park League will start its tenth week tonight with games listed on four diamonds.

Dick Casey's club of Neponset, leading the pack after an uphill grind, will move to Dorchester Town Field to play last year's champ, Jordan Marsh, under Johnny Donahue.

The last two weeks have seen some jockeying back and forth among the first division clubs, and in the scramble Jordans are now in third place, one point behind runnerup Neponsets.

Dick Casey will need either Quilty or Bud Davis to the mound, while the Intoners will use Callahan.

The Hennigan Club of Roxbury, very much in the running, will be at home to Wolf's at Dorchester. Rosindale-St. Augustine at Fallon. St. Lazarus-Maddens at Neponset.

Marine Rides Rickshaw Into Hot Nest of Trouble

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

Well, I hope you boys and girls know how to handle a pair of chop sticks, because today we're going in China. We're going with the U. S. Marine Corps, but don't think that's going to be any special protection, because China's a big country, and Shanghai is a big city. And the Marines can't be everywhere.

To tell you the bare and unvarnished truth about it, they didn't even do a very good job of protecting MARVIN W. ATCHISON, of 46 NEWTON STREET, NEW BEDFORD, who sent in this yarn to me. And Mary, I'll have you know, was one of their own boys—a Marine himself.

All his life, Marv Atchison had wanted to look over China.

Maybe he had that idea in the back of his mind when he joined the Marine Corps.

Well, if he did, the Marines sure did right by him, because they took him there and gave him plenty of chances to see all he wanted of the doggone country.

And if Marv saw just a little more of China—well—that was his own mistake and not any fault of the outfit. Marv was on the U. S. S. Marblehead, one of Uncle Sam's 7500-ton cruisers, when orders came to get out on the water and do a bit of sailing.

The Marblehead hit several ports in the West Indies, went through the Panama Canal to Hawaii, and then, to Marv's entire satisfaction, continued on across the Pacific, bound for China.

Most of the men aboard had never seen China, and, like Marv, were all eager to set foot on shore. Marv and a shipmate were among the first to get shore liberty.

They piled into a sampan and headed for the docks of the International settlement, and the first thing they saw on those docks were about a hundred rickshaws, all lined up waiting for them.

Marv and his shipmate each grabbed themselves a rickshaw and started to ride around. Everything was all right until they decided to leave the International settlement and go over into the native section of the city. Then, somehow, or other, the two rickshaws got separated and Marv lost his buddy.

With his pal gone, Marv's first thought was to get back to the International settlement. He had heard stories of the things that happened to lone Marines prowling around in Chinese cities.

He tried to make his rickshaw coolie understand what he wanted, but the coolie, although he had comprehended all the other orders that had been given to him, suddenly decided that he didn't know what Marv was talking about.

Marv had to yell pretty loud, and shake his fist a couple of times before the coolie was convinced that the dodge wouldn't work.

Then he said, "Me go back," and headed for the International settlement.

Marv watched the coolie pretty closely on the way back—determined that if there was going to be any monkey business, he was going to know about it first.

But the coolie didn't try any tricks until they were safely back in the International settlement. Then, suddenly, he turned the rickshaw into a dark alley.

Marv tensed his body and got ready for a scrap, but he was wholly unprepared for what happened next.

The Chinaman, raising the handles of the rickshaw high in the air, dumped him out backward onto the ground.

Marv landed on the back of his head, and for a minute the blow sort of stunned him.

Then, before he could get to his feet again, the coolie let out a war whoop, and stinking, yellow-faced figures came pouring into that alley from all directions.

It was a situation which, in Marv's mind, called for football tactics. He made a flying tackle for the nearest pair of his assailants, and they went down.

But at the same time, Marv felt the weight of a dozen others as they piled on top of him, kicking, scratching, clawing.

Flat on the ground, held down by the weight of 10 or 15 Chinese, Marv couldn't move. He felt hands reaching into his pockets—searching for his money—but he couldn't do a thing about it.

At last he felt a skinny claw groping in the right pocket—coming out with his money. What would those babies do now? Would they leave him alone, now that they had what they wanted?

Or would they kill him, to keep him quiet, or—well—just on general principles. Life is cheap in China!

But what these coolies would have done is a question that was never answered. For suddenly the Chinese were on their feet again, scrambling for the nearest exits.

A Sikh policeman—one of the guardians of the law in the International settlement—had appeared at the mouth of the alley shaking fists and left with his men from all directions.

The Sikh had caught one of the coolies, and Marv grabbed another. They took them to the police station, and Marv, his clothes almost torn off his back, returned to his ship his head full of good advice about watching your step with Shanghai rickshaw coolies.

I could give you some good advice, too, boys and girls. Send in those adventure stories of yours and clean up to the tune of a ten-dollar bill. Tomorrow I'll be dragging you up the dark alley of Adventure with "The Lion's Paw."

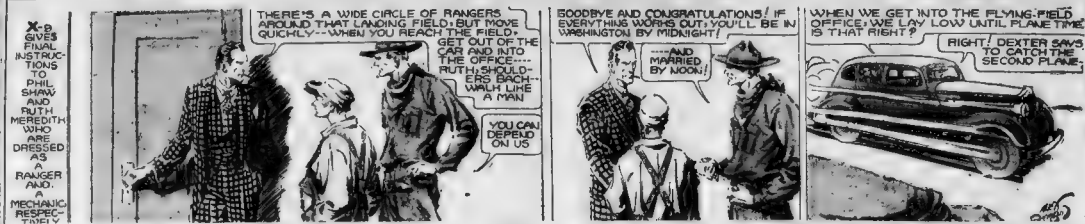

It's as easy as just reaching for it—and a heck of a lot more fun. That's what hundreds of Boston American readers say of the $10 and $100 bills they have received from headline-hunter Floyd Gibbons for their TRUE adventure stories. Floyd says everybody has had at least one thrilling experience, and he wants to write up your. Send him the facts, and win a pocketful of dough, like Mrs. Henry W. Gould of Worcester, who drew a $10 check and a $100 prize.

HOW TO WIN
$100.00
And Membership In The Floyd Gibbons Adventure Club

It's all very simple. There are no rules, and everyone is eligible. Just write down the facts of your most thrilling adventure and mail it to Floyd Gibbons, care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. Remember, the story must be TRUE. Don't worry about how well you can write. Floyd will take care of that. Floyd will pay $10 for every story printed and an extra prize of $100 for the best story of the month. Keep a copy of your story if you wish to have it, AS NO STORIES CAN BE RETURNED. Do not send valuable pictures or souvenirs of your adventure. Send the FACTS.

Pay the Veterans' Bonus NOW Out of the Four Billion Dollar Federal Fund!

THE mammoth appropriation of four billion dollars may yet sink this administration—as wise and far-sighted men have predicted.

There is something sinister in such a bulk of MONEY.

Money in such magnitude carries a menace to every man that comes near it. It has always proved an accursed thing in human affairs.

It ferments, sours, stains—DESTROYS. Hapless the man entrusted with its possession—or worse fate—with its expenditure.

This giant-wad of billions, ostensibly for public works, has already proved itself a failure as a means of creating public works of utility, or for taking the unemployed off the ever expanding dole.

All it has done thus far is to stand still and pollute the air!

TRUE, it has served as a backdrop for Tammany Farley's effort to Tammanize the United States.

But that only pleases Farley. Its existence in the hands of an administration that plumes itself upon its political astuteness is a sort of major premise in a bribery set-up!

Congress without seeing it or touching it, but knowing it is there and understanding exactly why and for what its possession is valued by those who control it. IS MORALLY BRIBED WITHOUT THE PASSING OF A DOLLAR!

Already it has worked its iniquity upon the administration, which is openly charged in Congress with the flagrant use of pressure to sway the action of the people's representatives and to enforce the passage of bills prepared by the administration and sent to Congress merely for a rubber stamp approval.

Why not do SOMETHING DECENT with this money while it is in our power to do so?

THERE IS one avenue of expenditure, righteous in motive, certain to be broadly beneficial, justifiable from the standpoint of sound economics—and which will absorb and take out of harm's way two billions of this dangerous fund, legitimately and with the approval of the American people.

THAT IS THE PAYMENT NOW OF THE SOLDIERS' BONUS!

We know the administration is opposed to making this payment.

Just why—one can understand. It cannot be considerations of economy which restrain it because it is the most extravagant administration that ever existed in this or any country in the world.

No dubious project but enlists its financial support instantly.

It gives, disburses, scatters, to everyone but the veterans, with a freedom, lack of hesitation, and abundance, which make it appear that reason or even scruple have nothing to do with spending—as long as it is only the people's money.

CAN anyone explain why our veterans should be singled out as the sole victims of a penuriousness which the administration shows to no other section of our citizens, but reserves exclusively for those most deserving of its bounty?

It is time for ANOTHER REVOLT in Congress against an administration policy that cannot justify itself!

Let every independent and patriotic Congressman support the demand that the House committee on appropriations be discharged of further consideration of the joint resolution No. 300, introduced by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York. This resolution directs the payment of the adjusted service certificates to World War veterans out of the four billion dollar public works fund and the unexpended balance of one billion carried over from the last Congress.

The sum thus expended would AT LEAST be saved from sacrifice to the vagaries and utterly unsound socialistic experiments of Tugwell and his Frankfurter coryphees of the brain trust.

WHAT money would find its way into the hands of the deserving veterans would at least have gone home clean and legitimately.

It would be saved from the unclean and fetid purposes of the politicians of the New Deal, and their use of it to purchase votes, for the perpetuation of their profitable control of the multiplying thousands of useless offices in our vast bureaucracy.

And—let the President not forget—it would at least reduce and diminish pro tanto the menace to his political future and to his fair fame—that lurks in the existence of this VAST and DANGEROUS CORRUPTION FUND!

So Taxes Are High!

How Surprising

FROM Washington to Wilson, 124 years, the Federal government spent, in round numbers, 24 thousand million dollars.

From the inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933 to 1936, three years, the Federal Government will have spent in round numbers 24 thousand million dollars.

The sums are almost identical.

But it took the government 121 years longer to spend the first sum than the second.

As for State expenses, county expenses, city expenses, town and village expenses—they have multiplied by the hundred-fold or the thousand-fold as well.

And the reason?

POLITICS and POLITICIANS.

THOSE two words account for by far the greater bulk of this incalculable, incredible, insane extravagance.

Every old and useless political office that can be retained means a living for some political heeler, and support for some political machine.

Every new and useless political office that can be invented means the same.

Spectacle in Sky

Watch Moon—No Charge

If the clouds keep out of the way, we'll be able to see a great spectacle in the sky this evening.

And there'll be no charge for it.

It will be the total eclipse of the moon, beginning at about 11 p. m.

The sky show will continue around two hours.

This is within three minutes of the longest possible record.

Tonight's eclipse, as the earth throws its shadow on the moon, has little, if any, scientific importance.

The scientists of 1936 know about all that it is to be learned from such events.

Years ago the eclipse would have terrorized superstitious people.

And the world was then believed to be FLAT.

Now even a lower-grade pupil can look at the eclipse, watch the creeping shadow, and see proof that the earth is really a globe.

For no other geometrical figure could ALWAYS cast a circular shadow.

"The House Is Haunted"

It Can't Be Proven

Mrs. Ralph Harlow, according to a Provincetown dispatch, owns a 135-year-old house which she believes is haunted.

The Boston Psychological Research Society was invited the other day to investigate the spooks.

The ghosts, as the story runs, appear periodically.

"I can always tell when something unusual is going on," Mrs. Harlow is quoted as saying, "for the cats' fur stands on end and their tails swell up almost the size of a collar dog's tail."

Finally, the cats "take flight" from the house.

One trouble with spooks is that NO ONE can PROVE having seen one.

If the Boston Psychological Research Society discovers any ghosts in the old Provincetown house, we think Floyd Gibbons would like the story.

But we warn the investigators that "ghosts" in the Gibbons' true yarns are always explainable as due to natural causes.

And are NOT really ghosts.

East Boston Tunnel

Wise Experiment

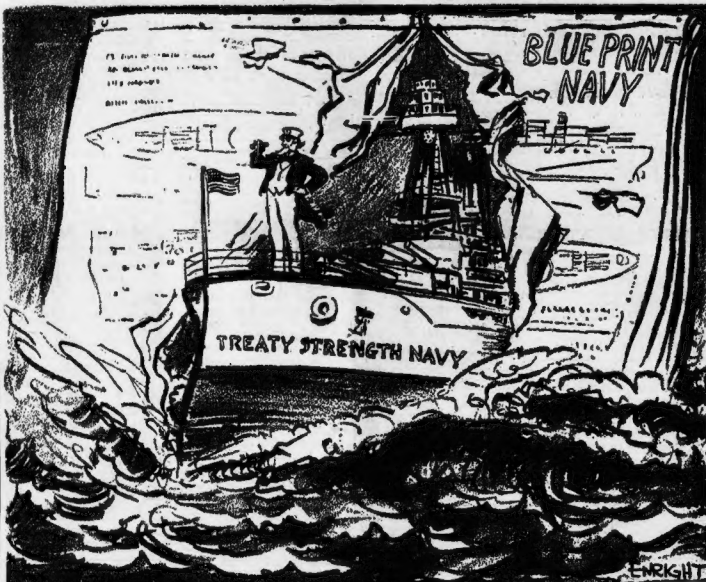

The experimental service being conducted by the Boston Elevated in the East Boston Tunnel looks like a wise move.

Motor coaches are being run on frequent schedules from Haymarket Square to Porter Street, East Boston.

The fare—a nickel—will meet the requirements of many thousands of passengers.

There appears to be no reason why the experimental service shouldn't be made regular.

Crashing Through!

From a BLUE-PRINT Navy to a TREATY-STRENGTH Navy!

Ships of STEEL (instead of SHIPS ON PAPER)!

Such phrases as these last week acclaimed the advancement of the naval construction program.

When the President signed the four hundred and sixty million dollar Naval Appropriation Bill, it provided enough money to maintain the Navy for one year, to start construction of twenty-four new fighting ships and to buy 555 new airplanes.

Secretary Swannick at once called for bids from private shipyards on thirteen vessels, and announced that government yards would estimate on eleven others.

The objective is a full treaty-strength Navy by 1942.

This fall there are to be more "naval conversations," based upon Japan's denunciation of the 5-5-3 ratio fixed by the Washington treaty.

Japan demands PARITY with America, which would actually mean Japanese SUPERIORITY in the Pacific.

And from London it is reported that former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will visit Washington to "discuss" abandonment of the 5-5-3 treaty ratio in Japan's favor, and to "explore" the possibility of Anglo-American naval co-operation for world peace.

America has already answered the outstanding question.

The proper ratio for a defense Navy must remain at or near TWO SHIPS for America to ONE SHIP for Japan.

Neither should ANY foreign country tell America how strong, or how weak, our Navy must be.

That is for America to decide and America HAS DECIDED.

A TREATY-STRENGTH NAVY BY 1942!

New York Day by Day - - - By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 15—(Daily): Bettines and choruses from Doris Kenyon, the Frany, Pops and Wario Morehouse. And to say farewell to Valentine Williams against his return to England until autumn and came upon Verne Porter with a silly about what Paul Revere and at the end of his ride. It being "Whoa!"

Then with my wife to the Sidney Kents and later to Coudé Nax's tea for Loretta Young.

To dinner with roysters at Luchow's and fared robustly on cold Prague ham and potato salad.

And Frank Sullivan, Alison Smith and Russell Crouse came to sit at another table. And Al Smith and his wife at another.

Later to visit Virginia Rothacker and a handsome chap named Eugene O'Neal.

My frantic search was noticed by a way-haired Adonis at an adjoining table. He came to my rescue gallantly. The food asmaritan proved to be John McCormack, the singer.

Personal nomination for the severest city strip for a contemporary walk—Gramercy Park at dusk. Edwin Booth knocked his head against the stars there, too.

One of the society scribblers recently chronicled this: "The Maharajah of Kaporthala met Xavier Cugat."

They had met for the first time. And long into the night and several dawnings my head is bumping with.

"Maharajah of Kaporthala met Xavier Cugat."

It's a lot of fun, too, while dapping around the room and hopping over chairs. And is not had on the family altar.

George Gould's Millions Built It

Scores of American Girls Enjoy It. Money Lavishly Spent Is Not Wasted.

THE GIRLS IN THE GREAT POOL

The late George Gould—his generosity was great, his friends were many—built for his wife and children a most beautiful place at Lakewood, N. J. He built courts for racquets, squash and indoor tennis, including the court in which his son, the late Jay Gould, became world's champion.

George Gould built a beautiful swimming pool and a great indoor riding court, where his children could ride their horses and play polo in winter. He enclosed hundreds of acres with a high fence, built sunken gardens, erected magnificent statues and fountains of marble and bronze brought from Europe, built great stables, polo fields, private golf links.

Some said: "What extravagance!" They were wrong.

ARCHERY OUTDOORS—ATHLETIC COURT IN THE DISTANCE

George Gould is gone, his wife is gone, his children, married, are scattered.

The magnificent palace and grounds and athletic halls that he built are occupied by Georgian Court College, conducted by the Sisters of Mercy, for the education of American girls, regardless of creed.

The pictures published here show how the magnificent place, built by a generous, rich father for the happiness of his children, now gives happiness to the children of many men.

A thing well done is never wasted, and it is folly to decry any work that is a work of beauty.

Georgian Court College is surrounded for miles on all sides with pine trees, within easy reach of New York, its concerts and stores, and is presided over by Mother Mary John, who will be glad to tell you all about it.

Write to Mother Mary John, Georgian Court, Lakewood, N. J.
